Santa's Little Online Helper

Accrington Observer – 14th September 2007

Hungry Hyndburn folk can get their grub online thanks to the launch of an Internet takeaway service – believed to be the first of its kind.

For the past 15 years, Santa's takeaway on Abbey Street, Accrington, has built itself up to be one of the area's most popular fast food restaurants. And now staff say it is even easier for customers to get what they want thanks to the launch of an internet ordering service.

To use it all would-be diners have to do is log on to www.santaspizza.com and select what they want to eat. They are then emailed a receipt to confirm the shop has got their order and simply sit back and wait for their meal to be delivered.

Staff say they hope the service will be like Christmas has come early for customers at Santa's, which got its name following a mix-up when a sign was being printed for the business. They also hope the Internet site will make it easier than ever before for customers to order their food and say it has proved massively popular since it was first launched.

"It just makes things alot easier for people when they are ordering as they don't have to ring us up and they can take as long as they like to browse through our website."
